

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells About Another Engagement—Wonderful Work Being Done by Women's Farm Unit Along Well-Organized Lines

JUST as I have remarked before, and frequently at that, life seems to be one engagement after another these days, and it strikes me Chestnut Hill is rather a busy little place. How does that hit you? There's Mariana Gowen—for even if she is in town for the winter she is more identified with Chestnut Hill—and Charlotte Brown and yesterday Sarah Avery and Winder Johnson. Four Chestnut Hillites in three days to announce their engagements. That is going some!

But the wee bird has been whispering in a rather twittering manner to me about a certain romance wherein the lady in the tale is a deb-to-have-been, whose home is on the Main Line, not more than a half hour's ride from town. She is very vivacious, this young damsel, and considered mighty pretty. Brown hair and brown eyes and lovely coloring. He, I am told, is tall—in fact, six feet high—and rather fair—just the proper contrast. I also hear the dispositions are very congenial and before very long—that is, when they get ready to tell us—we'll hear about it. And I think you'll be pleased.

HOW fast the Bishop girls are marrying, aren't they? Natalie married Charlie Choate, of Boston, last year and Augusta, too, married Lieutenant David Seymour in August, and now Mary, the elder daughter, we hear was married to Lieutenant John Peabody, U. S. R., out in Oklahoma on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Bishop, who is a New Yorker, moved to Torrensale about two years ago and took the former house of Mrs. Walter Mamey. He has five most attractive daughters, but my goodness, there are only two left now and they are very young, Muriel and Abigail.

Natalie has come to live in Torrensale with her father while her husband is at war, and I suppose Mary will also come back after her husband goes over to the other side.

SHE was only a little girl, not more than nine or ten years old, and as she and her nurse walked down Broad street more than one head turned to watch the small brown-clad figure with golden curls and big brown eyes.

As she came abreast of me the little hand was raised in proper military salute, and turning, I saw a young naval officer directly behind me. As I watched the lieutenant he returned the little one's salute with all the seriousness and gravity due to such an important military courtesy.

There were many tender smiles on the faces of several of the passersby who had witnessed the little incident, and I wondered who it was who had taught this child the importance of respecting the uniform of Uncle Sam. Perhaps she has a big brother or daddy in the service—who can tell? At any rate, she loves the soldier or the sailor, and judging from the lieutenant's face the navy man loved her.

IT'S wonderful what the Women's Farm Unit, which was established at Berwyn by the Weeders and Gardeners' Clubs of this city, has done already. The work is in full swing and the farmers around the Main Line, Chester and Delaware Counties are clamoring for help. I am told, The camp was opened on April 3 and is located in a large old farmhouse and several smaller houses on Waterloo road. It is run on lines closely resembling those of a military camp. The workers have enlisted in the women's land army for the patriotic service of food production. They look very jaunty in their uniforms of khaki and large straw hats.

All of the farms and estates in the neighborhood are counting on using this woman help for their farming this summer, but preference will be given to the farmers. Some of the farms which have already employed workers from the Berwyn unit are George McFadden, Bryn Mawr; David Wilson, Berwyn; Joseph P. Page, Bryn Mawr; W. W. Montgomery, Radnor; C. H. Scott, Radnor; Walter Lippincott, Bryn Mawr.

Workers can be hired by the hour or day for farm, truck, orchard, dairy or poultry work, in squads of two or more as desired. A captain with each squad is responsible for taking orders and directions and keeping all time records. Particulars can be obtained from Miss MacIntosh, who is in charge at the Women's Farm Unit Camp, Berwyn, Pa.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Nathan Hayward, president of the weeders; Mrs. Isaac La Boetie, president of the gardeners; Mrs. Clarence Warden, Mrs. James Winsor, Jr., Mrs. George Thayer, Mrs. C. Howard Clark, Mrs. Howard Wood, Mrs. Henry S. Jones, Mrs. George S. Jackard, Mrs. Adolph Rosenberger, Mrs. Horatio Gates Lloyd and Mrs. E. Lewis Burnham, Jr.

A special feature will be a pageant of the Allies as presented by sixteen young women and young men, who will appear in the tan outfit dressed in costumes emblematic of the countries they represent.

This patriotic innovation has been prepared by Mrs. William A. Lieber and Mrs. Thomas G. Ashton, who have devoted their undivided attention to the planning of the pageant. Those who will participate in the pageant are:

America, Anne Ashton and Ledyard Heckscher; France, Polly Thayer and Matthew Bayard; Italy, Mable McDevine and Lippincott; England, Helen Shelton and Dick Newlin; Canada, Mary Stout and George Packard, Jr.; Scotland, Mona Crozier and George Vinton, Jr.; Ireland, Anita Strawn and Jack Bankson; Belgium, Marian Park and Trippart Collet; India, Alma Wamaker and Kent Kane; Japan, Frances Powell and Morris Dixon; China, Vernon Peterson and Louis Cloutier, Jr.; Serbia, Sara Meade Harrison and William Sellers, Jr.; Portugal, Florence Clither and William Roberts; Armenia, Priscilla Davis and Eddie Collette; Lithuania, Jane Harbison and Alexander Sellers; and Montenegro, Florence Crozier and Billie Ashton.

"Colonel Lewis J. Magill, U. S. M. C., will lead the pageant."

Another departure in favor of patriotic war work comes with news from Samuel Willets, of New York, who, after purchasing the Red Star mare, Virginia, for $150, presented her to the Philadelphia Indoor Horse Show committee to be auctioned off in the ring for the benefit of the Red Star organization, which has for its purpose the humanitarian care of those of our boys engaged in cavalry and Red Cross work for the Allies on the western battlefield.

This organization also cares for the famous dogs of war when they are wounded or sick, since a well-trained dog is a most valuable asset to the grim business of war. A string of horses from the stables of Louis K. Liggett, of Chestnut street, will be shown in the different classes which have arrived in Philadelphia, which means a decided increase in competition and much wider interest in the different events of the six sessions of the show. Among the horses sent by Mr. Liggett are Princess Fingale, Pulgura, Joy, Triloxwell and Bouncing Bantam.

A patriotic entertainment and dance will be given tonight in Mercantile Hall, Broad street above Chestnut, by Standard Lodge, No. 3, Judean Union. The proceeds will go toward providing comfort for twenty-five members now in the service.

Among the features of the entertainment will be the unveiling of a hand-painted "Roll of Honor" tablet presented by Edward Skysailer and dedicated to the "boys" in the service. Judge John M. Patterson will make an address.

Items of news for the society were sent by a reporter and printed in the Evening Public Ledger, 606 Chestnut street.

A dance in honor of our "Men of the Destroyers" was given last night at the Ship and Tent Club, 2230 Christian street, under the auspices of the Navy Section. While a great many entertainments are given each week for the soldiers and sailors, this affair was planned entirely for the enlisted men from several United States destroyers which are in port here at the present time. These vessels, though much bigger than the submarine chasers, are not nearly so large as the battleships and, therefore, the men do not have the same facilities for recreation.

A number of women, who are members of the Navy Auxiliary of the American Red Cross, have "adopted" these destroyers and are through their efforts that the dance was arranged.

The patronesses included Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, Mrs. Alfred Grey, Mrs. D. H. Nelson and Mrs. Robert Morris. Among the ladies were Miss Isabel Montgomery, Miss Laura McGowan, Miss Mildred Reineke, Miss Marion Reineke, Miss Mildred Carter, Miss Mabel Leonard, Miss Constance Burns, Miss Katherine Burns and Miss Mary Eastwick.

Sisters at Double Wedding Birdsboro, Pa., May 1.—Lulu M. and Ida A. Geiger, sisters, daughters of Mrs. L. A. Geiger, were married yesterday at Geiger's home at Birdsboro, Pa. The bride was Miss L. A. Geiger, the former becoming the bride of Harry B. Moyer and the latter becoming Mrs. Leroy Geiger. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Walter F. Humphrey and W. F. Delbert.

WOMEN IN INDUSTRY

PROBLEM IN FRANCE

Praise for Order Giving Feminine Workers Right to Wear War Insignia

"The replacing of men by women in manufacturing plants has brought up many problems in the countries at war," says Louis Burillon, former Prime Minister of France.

"This replacement is necessary wherever the nature of the work permits, for this course has the double advantage of facilitating the establishment of new factories and of sending fighting units to the army."

"The most far-reaching question that it brings up is the birth rate, the conservation of the child, and of the very life of the French race. The Academy of Medicine has examined this question in an endeavor to protect maternity by a series of measures that shall not interfere with the work of the factories."

"I must do Mr. Albert Thomas, Minister of Armaments and Manufactures of War, the justice to say that he did not wait for this official conclusion to make certain precautionary arrangements, rulings, and restrictions, without which national defense would be deprived on the one hand of what it was receiving on the other."

"I also applaud his action in granting to the women munition workers the right to wear as a decoration on their breasts the insignia of the lighted grenade, such as is worn on the sleeve of the mobilized workmen."
